Seven Amazing Facts about Ladakh

1. KELA PASS

World's Highest Motorable Pass

Kela pass is a high mountain pass in the Changthang region of Leh district in Union Territory of Ladakh which has become the highest motorable pass of the country connecting Leh with Pangong Lake. The altitude of the Kela pass is 18,600 ft from mean sea level. Earlier Khardung La was the highest motorable pass having a height of 18,300 ft.

2. 225 Bird Species Live In This Desert

Ladakh is a high-altitude desert. It has very little vegetation and is filled with a barren landscape of ice and rugged mountains. Although it is a desert, the land is home to around 225 bird species including some of the rare birds like Hoopoe, Robins, Finches, Redstarts, and others. During migration time, you can find many migratory bird species too.

3. The Highest Settlement Region In The Country

The area located between Zaskar and Suru Valley is the country's highest located settlement region. The Rangdum community populates this region, which is 4,400m above sea level.

4. The Rare Twin Humped Bactrian Camel

The camel with two humps is common in Ladakh. The Bactrian camel safari is a very common activity in the Nubra Valley region. These camels are native to Mongolia and were imported here during the silk trade era.

5. Highest Saltwater Lake That Freezes

The first interesting fact is that Pangong Lake is located at 4,350m and it is the world's highest located saltwater lake. This lake is shared between India and China. Saline water sources do not usually freeze during winter but, the Pangong Lake freezes.

6. The Color Changing Lake

We already saw that the Pangong Lake is the highest saltwater lake that even freezes during winter. There is one more interesting fact about it. This lake changes its color based on the position of the sun. In the morning, the lake will be azure blue and it becomes green in the afternoon and red by evening.

7. Magnetic Hill - The Hill with Zero-Gravity

Technically speaking the Magnetic Hill of Ladakh is an optical illusion. Although it looks like an uphill route, it is actually downhill. So, if you leave your vehicle in neutral and turn off the ignition, it would look like your car is being pulled uphill.
